We work for excellence

Established in 1953, the Canadian Manufactured Housing Institute (CMHI) represents all facets of the manufactured building industry, bringing manufactured building producers, builders, developers, retailers, suppliers, landlease community managers, warranty providers, financial institutions, standards bodies, government agencies and related professions together to achieve business excellence. We're dedicated to industry professionalism, consumer education and improved housing choice and affordability. We're committed to the principles of trust, value and service in our business practices with consumers and others in the industry. We take pride in what we do, and how we do it.

When you become a CMHI member, you are plugged into a network that works for you and your business, every day:

- Updates on regulatory, technical and economic issues
- The Manufactured Housing Now e-bulletin, covering the latest industry developments
- Building Excellence® magazine
- Prompt response to questions and concerns
- Statistical reports
- Domestic and international sales leads and referrals
- Website promotion and information
- Representation on national codes and standards committees
- Liaison with government departments and agencies
- Research reports and publications
- Industry and government contacts
- Promotional materials

CMHI CODE OF ETHICS

We undertake to, as a condition of membership:

- Adhere to applicable building codes and standards for the construction of buildings in the factory and onsite as a minimum standard.
- Avoid all conduct or practices that would discredit or do injury to the Institute, its members or its customers.
- Adhere to those business practices that provide the public with a clear and definite understanding of the products, services and warranties being offered by the member and the obligations of each to the other; and to conduct all dealings on the basis of trust, value and service.
- Operate so as to extend the effectiveness of the Institute by exchanging information, experience and research in order to provide better homes, buildings and services to our customers.
- These responsibilities are freely and solemnly assumed and form part of an obligation as members of the Canadian Manufactured Housing Institute.

I have read and agree to abide by the Code of Ethics of CMHI as listed above.
